

THE CAMBRIDGE ECONOMIC HISTORY OF THE GRECO-ROMAN WORLD

In this, the first comprehensive one-volume survey of the economies of classical antiquity, twenty-eight chapters summarize the current state of scholarship in their specialized fields and sketch new directions for research. The approach taken is both thematic, with chapters on the underlying determinants of economic performance, and chronological, with coverage of the whole of the Greek and Roman worlds extending from the Aegean Bronze Age to late antiquity. The contributors move beyond the substantivist-formalist debates that dominated twentieth-century scholarship and display a new interest in economic growth in antiquity. New methods for measuring economic development are developed, often combining textual and archaeological data that have previously been treated separately. Fully accessible to a broad readership, the volume represents a major advance in our understanding of the economic expansion that made the civilization of the classical Mediterranean world possible.

WALTER SCHEIDEL is Professor of Classics and, by courtesy, History at Stanford University. His publications include Measuring Sex, Age and Death in the Roman Empire (1996), Death on the Nile: Disease and the Demography of Roman Egypt (2001), and, as editor, Debating Roman Demography (2001) and The Ancient Economy (2002, with Sitta von Reden).

IAN MORRIS is Jean and Rebecca Willard Professor of Classics and Professor of History at Stanford University, and directs Stanford's excavation at Monte Polizzo, Sicily. His publications include The Greeks: History, Culture, and Society (2005, with Barry Powell) and The Ancient Economy: Evidence and Models (2005, with Joe Manning).

RICHARD SALLER is Professor of Classics and History and the Vernon R. and Lysbeth Warren Anderson Dean of the School of Humanities and Sciences at Stanford University. His publications include Personal Patronage under the Early Empire (Cambridge, 1982) and Patriarchy, Property and Death in the Roman Family (Cambridge, 1994) and he is co-author of The Roman Empire: Economy, Society and Culture (1987).

ACKNOWLEDGMENTS

Many people have helped make this book a reality. We would particularly like to thank Michael Sharp, Sarah Parker and Jodie Barnes at the Cambridge University Press, who have seen this large project through the complicated process of production, and Pauline Hire, who first proposed the project to us in 1998. Linda Woodward was a diligent copy-editor. We are grateful to Margaret Debrunner Hall, Ron Packham, Anne-Marie Künzl-Snodgrass, and Anthony Snodgrass, who translated several chapters into English, and James Greenberg and David Platt, who provided valuable editorial assistance. Finally, we would like to thank Lucy Cavendish College, Cambridge, for hosting a conference in September 2002 that allowed us to strengthen the volume considerably, and the Division of Social Sciences of the University of Chicago for financial support that made the conference possible.
