It regards the development of a crystal Fixture, an energy focus able to take on the properties of an inputted item. This crystal was developed in Station Delta before its termination. The memory of surviving engineers was modified to retain secrecy. Your services in delivering the Fixture to Station Beta for testing were integral to the success of the project. :END

Brigadier General, the Fairplay is needed again. The Fixture's testing at Station Beta is complete, and it needs to be transported to Wishborne immediately. The Fairplay's use in transporting the Fixture from Delta to Beta was smooth, so we call upon your services again. Reply with the closest date that the ship would be available.
