SUBJECT: Backlog Program Updates

RECIPIENT: Director Sherman, Station Beta, Office 3

DATE: 7.10.675 SA

AUTHOR: Technical Officer Steady Hands, Gaunt, Office 9, (Technician First-Class, Office 3)

Director:

I am pleased to announce that my assigned tasks within the Backlog Program are completed. Construction of Projects Owl, Vulture, Crow, and Silence is complete. As of this moment, all projects except Silence have been through rigorous field testing. Vulture has since undergone redesigns and has been improved overall. Owl and Crow are more than ready for mass production. Silence was only finished within the last few days, and has yet to undergo field testing. However, the candidate whom I have lined for testing the weapon is an accomplished sniper and precision marksman. I have no doubt that the weapon will serve the State well. I will send you the blueprints and sketches detailing the various Projects as soon as I am capable. Project PY-96402-9 (Nightstalker) is officially complete and are ready for mass production by the State. The Appropriate forms will be sent as soon as possible

As my task in Office 9 has shifted from its original purpose, I will continue to serve my duty here. I will return to Beta as soon as I can, with weapons and information in tow. Until then, you may pass any questions you have to a man named Preacher of Office 6.

Director, I hope all is well. Give Inventive Mind my best regards. I will certainly enjoy returning to my true home soon. My purpose here in Gaunt is beyond pertinent to the State. Until then, I wish you the best. I am anxious to return to Beta and further our work for Office 3.

-Best regards, Steady Hands
Chief Artificer of Station Beta

Efficiency. Practicality. Ingenuity.
